Dear ACPA Committee Members:

Thank you for the opportunity to express my full support for funding the Goodwin Memorial A.M.E. Zion Church [hereinafter "Goodwin Church"] CPA proposal. As an African American heritage site, it remains a significant part of the history of the peoples of Massachusetts and current fabric of our community.

I am a long-time resident of our town, and I have learned much about our history. I also know that there is much more to learn about the peoples of Amherst. The Goodwin Church is an integral part of the history of our town and our peoples. The preservation of Goodwin Church will insure the continued contribution of this resource to the understanding of our cultures and strengthen the relations among the peoples of Amherst.

As a member of the Human Rights Commission, I have reviewed the Goodwin Church's proposal. We were advised of the need for a Capital Needs Assessment as the pre-development foundation for documenting costs, setting priorities, and making a plan. An archaeological surveys and recommendations also appears to be a necessary step for preservation.

At a time when it is so important for our community to understand and share our joint history, we need to understand that the development of the self-identities of peoples of color may differ from other members of our community. Psychologists, such as William Cross and Beverly Daniel Tatum, teach us that the development of self-identity can be critical to understanding and improving race relation. We are not taught about the development of self-identity in peoples of color, and it is not fully reflected in the curriculum in our schools. But much of the history remains a part of our living history.

I have been told that the Church, “...envision and have embarked on a comprehensive project to recover and articulate more history of the African American community in Amherst through the history of the Church, spearheaded by an ongoing project with UMass History Department.”

“Goodwin Memorial A.M.E. Zion Church is a living example of hard work, heart, and spirit.” Clearly, it continues to contribute to improving community relations in Amherst. Goodwin Church’s contributions will continue making Amherst a better place where our peoples can live with peace and dignity.

For these reason, I fully support Goodwin Church proposal for Community Preservation Act funding in FY 2016.

Respectfully,

Gregory D.S. Bascomb, Chair
Amherst Human Rights Commission
